Course Description

The goal of this course is to provide students with a solid understanding of employee benefits practices in today's business environment. We will introduce the socio-economic and institutional context of the development of employee benefits system, with a special focus on the design and management of benefits programs in the changing workplaces. Special topics from basic protection benefits programs, e.g., health care and retirement plans, to emerging enhancement programs such as financial wellness will be discussed in this course. Students will obtain essential knowledge and professional views to effectively manage employee benefits in a variety of companies.

Thought Papers

The purpose of the thought papers (there will be two) is to enable you to think over pressing issues in employee benefits (e.g., should the health care law be repealed?). In your paper, (a) take a position on the issue (e.g., I believe that the health care law should be repealed because the costs to small employers are too high...), and (b) provide rationale for your position, calling on outside sources to help substantiate your position. Base your presentation on 2 or 3 articles from HR practitioner publications (e.g., HR Magazine, published by the Society for Human Resource Management, Benefits Quarterly, published by the International Foundation of Employee Benefits, Harvard Business Review, published by Harvard Business Publishing), business periodicals (e.g., Fortune), or major newspapers (e.g., New York Times, The Wall Street Journal). Quantitative data from survey reports and recent research results are also encouraged to be used in the paper. Assume the role of an HR professional who is briefing his/her HR colleagues on a timely employee benefits topic. In the example, you would provide rationale for each point that you raise after the word “because” in (b).

Each thought paper should be about 3 pages (more than four pages is unacceptable) based on standard formatting (double spacing, 12 point font, and 1-inch margins all around). Listing of references does not count toward the page limit. I will hand out the issues to you at least two class sessions prior to the due dates of April 9 and May 3.

Submission via Compass is required. If technical problems occur, you can send your papers as an attachment to my email by the due date.

Each thought paper will be graded as follows: Meeting both criteria earn you 175 points; meeting only one of the criteria earns you 140 points; and, meeting none of the criteria earns you 0 points. The submission deadline will be 2pm on the due dates. Not submitting your thought paper on time will result in a 20% deduction from your grade for each day late.

Class Participation

4 short quizzes (20 minutes) will be given at random throughout the semester, of which the top 3 scores count toward your grade. The quizzes will be closed-book and closed-notes. Each quiz will have 3 questions from which you will answer one.

How should you prepare to answer questions? First, read the assigned materials. Some questions will be based on key terms, which are the words or terms highlighted in bold within the chapters. For instance, “Define qualified plans.” Second, be familiar with the learning objectives stated in each chapter. Within the chapters, the all-capital letters headings correspond to learning objectives. Within the objectives, you will see secondary headings (left, mixed case). I might ask: “Define three types of retirement savings plans.” The answer would be defined benefit, defined contribution, and hybrid, and you would briefly talk about each one.

Team Presentation of an Employee Benefits Issue

Your team will make one 30-minute presentation on an employee benefits issue of your choice. Base your presentation on about 3 or 4 articles from the types of publications listed in the Thought Paper section. Assume the role of HR professionals who are briefing their HR colleagues on a timely employee benefits topic. Please use 15 to 18 PowerPoint slides for the presentation. Following the presentation, please lead a class discussion. To lead a discussion, write three questions about the topic in the article you presented. Please hand in your PowerPoint slides (a printed black-and-white copy). Your grade will be based on a logical presentation of ideas in your oral and PowerPoint deliveries. I will make team assignments and your presentation dates will be randomly determined by drawing lots. Team assignments will be posted on Compass on March 25. Presentation dates will be assigned on March 26.
